

AgustaWestland Philadelphia Corporation (AWPC)Supplier Diversity & Business Statement

At AWPC we are sturdily committed to supporting the Small Business Administration's initiatives for small business participation in commercial and federal procurements. We have confidence in that by encouraging small businesses to offer their products and services to AWPC, we will accomplish our core business strategy of improving supplier diversity and creating a diverse competitive advantage.

AWPC recognizes that subcontracting within the federal procurement market can be a significant challenge for small businesses while at the same time; it is often the first opportunity that small businesses need to get started in this market. AWPC is interested to build partnerships with high technology small businesses that meets Small Business Administration (SBA) determination requirements, which include Small Disadvantaged Business and HUBZone Empowerment businesses); Woman-Owned Business; Veteran-Owned Small businesses; Veteran-Owned Small businesses, Service-Disabled Veteran-Owned concerns); Native American businesses and Historically Black Colleges and Universities; and Minority Institutions.

AWPC is committed to providing the broadest possible opportunity for contribution in our commercial and federal procurement to small business concerns that share our high standards of quality, service, timeliness, and safety at a competitive cost.

As AWPC business interests expand and adapt to today's demanding challenges, we are committed to ensuring that our goal of supplier diversity remains an integral part of our corporate procurement processes and that it becomes a commitment for all employees of AWPC.
